

DUCE DEMANDS HITLER'S SUPPORT

Dies Tonight

Slaying "Unconscious Act"

'LONG QUERY' IS ANSWERED

Dr. E. H. Steele, Los Angeles psychiatrist in the Charles Calhoun murder trial yesterday answered a 3000-word hypothetical question from the defense with just one word: "unconscious".

The long hypothetical question, which required 35 minutes to recite, and which brought a 15-minute objection from the prosecution before the court allowed it, boiled down to a query whether, in the opinion of the psychiatrist, Calhoun was unconscious of his act when he shot Clyde Dillinger to death at Midway City last June.

"Unconscious"
The witness said Calhoun was unconscious. The conclusion was based upon the detailed sketch of Calhoun's life, from childhood, his characteristics of behavior, injuries he had received in accidents, and asserted wrongs he had received at the hands of Dillinger, which the defense claims snuffed Calhoun's mind for the moment when the killing occurred.

Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, also Los Angeles psychiatrist, today gave the same reply to the same question, which Defense Attorney N. D. Meyer repeated.

Attacks Findings

Assistant District Attorney President Turner vigorously attacked the conclusions of the aliens in his cross-examination, which was of such character as to cause both psychiatrists to comment afterward that the cross-examination was the "fairest and cleverest" they had encountered in long careers as expert witnesses in such cases.

The trial proceeded yesterday with a slight diversion caused when Judge James L. Allen issued an order that no photographs of anything connected with the case be taken and warned a Santa Ana newspaper photographer that he would be cited for contempt if he snapped a picture of Calhoun.

The defense expected to complete its case today, according to Attorney Meyer. The state then will present its rebuttal testimony, with the probability that the trial will carry over into next week.

Approve $103,000 Prado Project

Payment of $103,000 of county funds for construction of an underground drainage conduit beneath Prado dam, for the purpose of draining underground water from the basin above the dam, was authorized by the county supervisors late yesterday. Auditor W. T. Lambert being instructed to advance the funds as an addition to the federal government's contract for construction of the dam.

The drainage conduit, which will be placed 15 feet below the regular dam outlet works at the level of the stream bed, will be designed to carry out a plan of the major water companies to drain the underground water from the Prado basin, it was stated.

FDR's Son Denies Pastor's Charge

HOLLISTER, Calif., Dec. 7.—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, contributes to the support of his and other churches.

But he does not make deductions for such in his income tax returns. He made these explanations in return to a statement yesterday by Rev. Howard Stone Anderson before the house un-American committee at Washington.

Rev. Anderson, pastor of the First Congregational church, Washington, noted that young Roosevelt's income reports for "several years" showed no financial help to a church. He said Roosevelt thus set a bad example. Such practice, he said, weakened the spiritual institutions and thus weakened America.

Negotiations were completed today whereby The Register acquired two features that formerly appeared in the Santa Ana.

FDR Plan To Get Support

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The eighth Pan-American conference appears certain to endorse the principle of President Roosevelt's program for solidarity of the Americas against foreign aggression, authoritative sources said today upon the arrival in Peru of the United States delegation headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

After a series of informal conferences preliminary to opening of the formal sessions on Friday, it was learned that Brazil is expected to introduce a resolution endorsing the United States viewpoint generally.

Expect Opposition
Well informed leaders in the conference preparations expressed confidence that the resolution eventually would be adopted unanimously, although preliminary opposition is expected.

At the same time, it was emphasized that there would be no written commitments in regard to plans for mutual defense, if necessary, against a foreign aggressor. It is not expected that the United States will seek any written accord, which would be strongly opposed by Argentina and other nations.

The action of the conference would not be binding on the governments represented, but it would be an expression of attitude in which all the 21 republics represented would be likely to join.

RESUME HEARING IN TIDELAND OIL CASE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(UP)—

Public hearings on charges that two state employees allegedly had misused their positions of public trust to attempt to accumulate a fortune in tideland oil leases, were resumed here today before the state personnel board.

Carl B. Sturzener, suspended chief of the state lands division, and Arthur H. Alexander, petroleum production inspector, opened their defense against charges preferred against them by Norris J. Burke, special counsel and investigator for the board.

Fourth Hearing

The men sought to resign Aug. 10 when the scandal broke regarding their asserted abuse of office. They now are under suspension by the board and this is the fourth of a series of public hearings in their case.

The accused men have branded the charges as a "political maneuver to discredit the Merriam administration."

They are charged with participating in a plan whereby filings were made Nov. 18, 1937 on oil rights in Wilmington and Huntington Beach tidelands owned or controlled by the state. They also are charged with having been involved in other improper transactions whereby valuable oil-drilling rights allegedly changed hands.

Services Held For Noted Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(UP)—

National leaders joined today in eulogizing Paul Y. Anderson, widely known Washington newspaperman for whom funeral services will be held this afternoon.

Speakers at the funeral this afternoon were Sen. Norris, Ind. Neb., and President John L. Lewis, of the Congress for Industrial Organizations, whom Anderson admiringly greeted.

Anderson, a correspondent for St. Louis newspapers for nearly 25 years, died soon after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets. The coroner returned a verdict of suicide.

Friends said he had requested that Norris and Lewis speak at his funeral.

Mr. Prator was in Bakersfield caring for his daughter's children at the time of the fire. Her blind brother, Max Prator, 40, was carried to safety by Herman Stogner, a lodger.

LABOR CHIEF TERMED RED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Rep. Thomas, R., N. J., criticizing failure of Secretary of Labor Perkins to force deportation of Harry Bridges, announced today he will ask her impeachment when Congress convenes.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Capt. John Keegan, Portland, Ore., chief of detectives, testified today before the house committee investigating un-American activities that a Portland police investigation showed Harry Bridges and Harold Pritchett to be aliens and Communists seeking "overthrow of the government."

Bridges is West Coast leader of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Keegan identified Pritchett as a Canadian who is president of the timber and sawmill workers union.

Both Reds?

He said the two men were "working under the guise" of labor leaders.

"What were they in reality?" asked Rep. Starnes, D., Ala., acting chairman.

"They are both members of the Communist party," Keegan replied. "In your opinion?" asked Starnes. "Did they use their capacity as labor leaders as a cloak to disguise their real purpose?"

"Yes," said Keegan.

Anti-Government

"What was their real purpose?" Starnes asked.

"To overthrow the government," said Keegan.

The witness said that at least 20 persons could substantiate his testimony and "give definite proof

FREEDOM OF PRESS FACES COURT TEST

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(UP)—

Nation-wide interest, because of the highly publicized Los Angeles Times contempt case, centered today on the California supreme court as it opened its Los Angeles session before Associate Justice Emmett Seawell, acting in place of the ailing Chief Justice William H. Waste.

The Times, General Manager Norman Chandler and L. D. Hotchkiss, managing editor, were found guilty and fined on charges filed by the Los Angeles Bar association.

6000 Jews Seek Homes

ZBASZYN, Poland, Dec. 7.—(UP)—More than 6000 Jews, homeless and unwanted, are dragging out a day-to-day existence in this tiny town on the Polish-German frontier.

They are the remainder of 10,000 Polish Jews who on Oct. 28 and 29 were summarily taken from their homes in Germany by the secret police, herded onto trains and dumped across the border into a "motherland" which many had never seen and whose language most of them were unable to speak.

Confined To Town
Huddled together in the poor little town of Zbieszyn, which itself has a population of 5700, these people can neither return to Germany to liquidate their business and settle their affairs nor proceed to the interior of Poland. Polish police, polite but firm, with bayoneted rifles slung across their shoulders, restrict them to the town limits.

They live in abandoned buildings, one an erstwhile dance hall with paper streamers still hanging from the ceiling, and in private homes where conditions are hardly better.

In one partly furnished mill 800 people, largely of the middle class who had been shopkeepers or professional men in Germany, were existing. Two hundred, people had their "beds," ragged, dirty straw sacks, and their few clothes laid

SEEK INDICTMENTS IN BOMBING CASE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(UP)—

The district attorney's office was reported today to be preparing to ask the county grand jury to indict a former detective captain, a police sergeant and a fire captain for the 1935 bomb attack upon Lyndon "Red" Foster, publisher of a political paper.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Eugene Williams said he would bring the case before the jury prior to Dec. 18, the deadline under the statute of limitations.

Home Bombed

Foster was injured severely when a black powder bomb wrecked his apartment on Dec. 18, 1935.

The bombing followed Foster's publication of articles in his political paper, "The Equalizer," charging job sales in the civil service department, and listing houses of prostitution in which he charged that a regular weekly payoff of $37.50 for each two inmates were being made by police.

FINLEY BLOCKS SALE OF PRADO PROPERTY

Chapman, head of the flood district's land department, to proceed with private sale of the properties which attracted no bidders at the public sale, required unanimous consent of the board. Finley refused to give it.

Without stating his reasons, Finley said he would wait until he had a chance to look over the ground, then he might change his vote. Other members favored quick action on disposing of the buildings and contents, because considerable looting has been in progress since the property was turned over to the county.

An attempt by the county supervisors late yesterday to authorize sale of buildings in the Prado basin acquired by the county, and not purchased during a recent public sale conducted by the board, was blocked by Supervisor Steele Finley, of Santa Ana. Authorization of Charles H.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS READ PRIZE ESSAYS FOR ROTARIANS

Three high school students held the earnest attention of the Santa Ana Rotary club yesterday as they presented prize-winning selections in the Santa Ana Traffic Safety commission oral contest. At the close of the meeting judging of the three contestants was held and the winners, in the order named were Jeanette Brown, Raymond Ross and Mary Cory.

Miss Brown dramatically portrayed the picture of a youthful quartette returning from a party. A challenge to "race you home" was accepted and in the race which followed two of the boys, one of the girls, and two older people were killed. The sixth member of these in the accident was badly scarred.

"You Bet Your Life"

"Listen and learn now before Death is your instructor," Miss Brown admonished the club members.

To win second place in the verdict of the judges Raymond Ross took as his subject "You Bet Your Life." Pointing out the tremendous odds against the chance-taker driving an automobile, Ross declared that every time a motorist takes a chance to gain one minute of time he is betting 17,000,000 to one the minute will be saved. The average adult has an life expectancy of 17,000,000 minutes, Ross said.

NATION'S FIRE LOSS

In her safety talk, Miss Cory gave a vivid picture of the fire bill of the nation. Picture 120 million people gathered in one place before a huge pit. Truckload after truckload of dollar bills are poured into the pit until 254 million dollar bills are stacked up. Over this is poured gasoline and the bills burn. Now picture 10,000 people being flung into the raging inferno. This is what happens every year in the United States," Miss Cory said.

ECHO OF COUNTY FEUD RESOUNDS

An echo of the erstwhile typewriter feud between the supervisors and county department heads came back to the ears of the supervisors late yesterday when a demand for $35.11 was filed by A. G. Flagg, Santa Ana printer, for the printing of 35 copies of a petition to the state supreme court, in the typewriter litigation between Purchasing Agent Eugene Fenelon and County Auditor W. T. Lambert.

Fenelon, carrying out a policy of the supervisors in controlling the purchase of department supplies, and designating which make of typewriter an official could order, had filed the petition with the state supreme court, after the superior court and appellate courts had admitted that the supervisors held control, but that its exercise had been misused in the typewriter case. The court ordered Fenelon to purchase the L. C. Smith typewriter which Auditor Lambert had requested.

Refer To Demand

Yesterday, Constable E. D. Marion, Anaheim, requested a new L. C. Smith typewriter. The board instructed Fenelon to supply an "adequate" typewriter, which may be a Remington machine, it was said.

The board yesterday referred the printer's demand to the district attorney, indicating that there is a question of who is responsible for the costs of the suit.

Another memento of litigation conducted by the supervisors, in the hog-ranch controversy, likewise came before the board late yesterday when it approved a demand of $100 as special counsel fees for B. Z. McKinney, who represented the board in the attempt to prosecute C. J. Lyons, of Buena Park, for violation of the ordinance prohibiting the hauling of garbage from outside the county. The appellate court, in San Diego, held the ordinance invalid.

HASTER STREET PLAN STRIKES NEW SNAG

The county supervisors, who last February approved extension of Haster street, in the Katella district, across Manchester avenue to the northward, only to run into complications with the Torrens Title law, yesterday rescinded its action of extending the thoroughfare.

The street extension had been granted over the opposition of C. M. McNeese, resident of the locality, and McNeese had one year in which to institute suit in court to block the move.

Two weeks ago, his attorney, R. C. Mize, filed a petition with the supervisors, pointing out that even through the Haster street extension had been used by the public long enough to establish it as a public highway, such right of use was nullified if the property crossed was registered under the Torrens title act. Such was the case in the Haster street matter. Not only the Torrens title act but the state highway act contained such provision, Mize pointed out.

The matter was referred to the district attorney, who reported yesterday that Mize was correct. The board thereupon rescinded the former resolution establishing the street extension.

Cities Assume Outfall Obligation

ELABORATE STAGE SETTINGS CONSTRUCTED FOR PLAY HERE

Santa Ana and other cities of the joint outfall sewer system will assume the burden of clearing out Santa Ana river channel in its lower area, under an agreement with the county, approved late yesterday by the county supervisors.

The agreement was drafted at a meeting Monday in Santa Ana city hall between representatives of the cities and the county, including Supervisor Harry D. Riley, of Anaheim, Flood Engineer M. N. Thompson, and Deputy District Attorney James E. Walker.

Will Clean Channel

It provides that the cities shall take over the work of removing tules and willows from the river channel for a distance of about two and a half miles, between Victoria street and a point upriver about three-quarters of a mile south of Talbert bridge.

The county will clear the remaining portion of the channel, including the work of raising the ridge between the channel and the west arm of Newport bay, near Bitter Point, to prevent flood waters from the river washing into the bay.

The board yesterday authorized the job of increasing the height of the ridge three feet, south of Coast Highway, at a cost of about $300, which will be charged to the harbor maintenance fund.

The second and third acts are laid in the court yard of Louis the 11th, and here royal splendor replaces the squalor of the Vagabond's tavern. Court ladies dance dignified measures while court gentlemen sing of their adventures while hunting. Lighting effects are very spectacular as the third act is mid-morning and the last act is that same moonlit evening.

The setting for the fourth act is the public square in Old Paris. A procession is entering the portals of Notre Dame while a choir sings a sonata for Francois Villon, who is to be hanged that morning. The gibbet is passed in the middle of the square and a special block is constructed so that Louis and his queen may see the spectacle.

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rainin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the body. Gas bloops up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour. Sink and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those two pounds of bile to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

NEW

... and in this natural gas region it will look new for years

Clean atmosphere—that's one reason why the Federal Building at Los Angeles will keep its fresh appearance for a long, long time. And the clean atmosphere of this area is due in large degree to the universal use of natural gas.

Wherever natural gas is employed; chimneys are smokeless—which means, of course, that the air is cleaner for the entire population.

Add to this quality of cleanliness the other outstanding features of natural gas. It makes possible quick, convenient cookery; silent, automatic refrigeration; healthful house heat; marvelous hot-water service.

The next time you are near a dealer's or your gas company, drop in and look over the new gas appliances.

CUBS, GIANTS TRADE 6 STARS

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — The 38th annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Players opened today with most of the informal talk revolving around the six-player deal between the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants—a trade generally considered as a two way housecleaning.

Many delegates expressed little surprise at the deal, which sent Cub Shortstop Billy Jurges, Catcher Ken O'Dea and Outfielder Frank Demaree to the Giants for Shortstop Dick Bartel, Catcher Gus Mancuso and Outfielder Hank Leiber. They considered the trade one involving players who had shaken the confidence of their managers.

Other trades:

1—Outfielder Tom Carey of the St. Louis Browns to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Johnny Marcell.

2—"Kiki" Cuylar, former Brooklyn manager, signed as manager of the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern association.

3—George (Mule) Haas, formerly of the Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics, signed as manager of Shreveport, La., in the Texas league.

4—Jersey City, International league, sold "Babe" Herman to the Hollywood club, which also bought Utility Infelder Bill Bissell from the New York Giants.

MRS. O'BRIEN STEALS SHOW AS SON FETED

By JACK CUDDY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—All New York was talking about Texas Christian university's "12th player" today as Quarterback Davey O'Brien, professor of football's most coveted award, flew back to the Fort Worth school with his entourage.

That 12th player—little Davey's mother—stole the show completely last night at the Downtown Athletic club during the ceremonial presentation of the Heisman Memorial Trophy to her diminutive son, who had been chosen the nation's outstanding college grid performer for 1938.

More than 700 spectators jammed into the club's bunting-festooned gymnasium. They got that old feeling in their throats and a bit of dew in their eyes as Mrs. Ella Mae Keith O'Brien thanked the sports writers of America for discovering at last a truth she had long known. She said: "To his mother, Davey has always been an All-American boy."

The chipper little gray-haired woman in the purple evening gown adorned with an orchid corsage was an ultra-modern mother but she gave off old-fashioned sentiment, there before the "mike."

She said, "at first I was afraid Davey might be hurt, because he is so small, compared to other players. But gradually I came to realize that defeat hurt my boy more than any physical injury. After that I concentrated on the score, And the scores have been fine this season. I know how grand they are because I played every minute with Davey, and everything has turned out just perfect for my little boy."

When Mother O'Brien said this, some of the men from Texas, in their big sombreros, felt like blub-bering because they knew how the little woman from Dallas, in the prince-nez spectacles, had made things turn out right, after the estrangement from her husband years ago, how her courage and energy had kept her and her Davey marching downfield, how her determination and intelligence had made a success of her private school of public speaking in Dallas.

Little Davey O'Brien spoke also, the lad with the hazel-nut hair, close set eyes, straight nose and large mouth, seemed even smaller than his mother as he faced the "mike." He thanked the sports writers, his teammates, his coach and "most of all the little lady on my left."

The brilliant passing attack of Johnny Mack Brown and his teammates that swept the Crimson Tide from behind to repel Washington, 20-19, Jan. 1, 1926, brought southern football to the front nationally.

A year later, Caldwell, the finest defensive back in Dixie, kicked the extra point after the Tuscaloosa tribe scored late in the going to tie the Cardinals of "Pop" Warner.

Wade's strongest Alabama team crushed Washington State, 24-0, Jan. 1, 1931, after which the Old Man switched to Durham.

Wade more than made up for that defeat with Alabama clubs that twice won and obtained a 7-7 draw with Stanford.

The brilliant passing attack of Johnny Mack Brown and his teammates that swept the Crimson Tide from behind to repel Washington, 20-19, Jan. 1, 1926, brought southern football to the front nationally.

Voicing his disapproval of high admission prices at big-time college football games and the excessive pressure directed at coaches and players, by overzealous alumni, fans and press, Coach Bill Cook of Santa Ana minced no words in speaking at Garden Grove's high school football banquet.

Cook cited the return to power of U.S.C. and Coach Howard Jones as an example of the absurdity of most demands for changes in coaching personnel. As for the high admission charges, Cook stated that he believed the Los Angeles Coliseum could have been filled every Sunday this season had the universities charged a flat rate of $1.50.

The banquet was attended by 70 players, students, coaches and guests. A turkey dinner was served. The program included music, informal speeches by civic leaders, coaches, Captain-elect Harry Littlejohn and Captain Bob Ward. Toastmaster was Dick Haster, president of Garden Grove's Lions. Harry Lake presented the school with a trophy, a gift of the Lions, on which will be inscribed each year the names of athletes selected by his teammates as "most valuable" to his team. Captain Ward, nephew of Coach John Ward of Santa Ana, was the first to be so honored. The Garden Grove squad presented Coach Blanchard Beatty with a hunting coat.

Helen Vinson Sues For Divorce From Perry

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Helen Vinson, blonde screen star, today filed suit for divorce against Fred Perry, British professional tennis star, charging him with extreme cruelty.

Miss Vinson, who married the tennis star in Harrison, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1935, charged Perry with having cursed at her frequently.

In 1936, she said, she was ill in London, but her husband refused to allow her to return to New York so that she could go under the care of her family physician.

Perry allegedly gave the excuse on that occasion that he wanted her to attend a tennis match in which he was participating "so that people won't talk."

Perry often refused to accompany her to parties and he frequently neglected social obligations, Miss Vinson alleged.

Once, she said, when she was scheduled to be interviewed on a radio program, Perry swore at her and told her that she should not appear over the air, the complaint, filed through Attorney Peirson Hall, declared.

Miss Vinson asked a division of the couple's community property, value of which she placed at $74,000.

The couple separated last Nov. 1, the complaint said.

NOMINATE 107 FOR $100,000 RACE MARCH 4

ARCADIA (UP)—Stagehand and Seabiscuit, who ran one-two in a neck and neck finish this year, topped a record field of 107 horses named today for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap to be run here March 4.

Virtually every top ranking American stake horse was entered for the mile and a quarter classic—richest race in the world—which will have its fifth renewal next year.

Other well known entries were Dauber, the Chief, Jacala, Pasteurized, Marcia, Porter's Mite, Cravat, Thanksgiving, Esposa, Magic Hour and War Minstrel.

Two prominent absents were Lawrin, Kentucky Derby winner, and War Admiral, champion—three-year-old of 1937, who were among entries named yesterday at Miami for the Widener Handicap, to be run the same day at Hialeah park.

Seabiscuit, victor over the Admiral in a recent match race at Pimlico, Md., also was named for the Florida event.

However, Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, said his horse likely would run in the Santa Anita if the weights are right.

Weights for the Santa Anita will be posted Dec. 15 with minimum assignments of 100 pounds. Horsemen were certain Seabiscuit would draw top impost, probably 133 pounds. At least a dozen others will break somewhere between 122 and 128.

Laguna Postal Receipts For Year At High Mark

CITY TO SEEK NEW BUILDING

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 7.—Renewed agitation for establishment of a new post office building in Laguna Beach impends, with the publication of figures showing all-time high in postal receipts at the local office, admittedly inadequate in space and accommodations.

Figures for 11 months of 1938 show an increase of 8 1/2 per cent over 1937, the comparisons being: 1937, $33,871.31, and for 1938, slightly over $35,000. Representations have been repeatedly made by the Lions club, chamber of commerce and other civic bodies, asking for a new federal building, and last year, hopes were high that something might be done. However, Congressman Shepard's recommendation went in favor of Ontario for the single building authorized for his district.

A concerted drive is to be instituted, prior to the meeting of the committees on postal appropriations during the forthcoming congressional session, looking towards recognition of Laguna's growth and claim to adequate postal quarters.

ALLEGED CONFIDENCE MAN CAPTURED HERE

Assertedly a bank artist for the past three years, Carroll Gustave Peck, 32, a native of Connecticut, was taken off a Motor Transit bus here this morning by police and charged with vagrancy.

Police Chief Floyd W. Howard said Peck confessed he had fleeced many truck and bus drivers by promising them jobs and collecting "union dues" from them, according to police allegations.

Driver Aids Capture

The defendant will be taken into court today for hearing. The arrest was made through the aid of John Hill, the bus driver, who recognized Peck as the man who had bilked him, it was alleged.

Hill said Peck approached him some time ago, said he owned a fleet of trucks and would give Hill a job as driver providing Hill paid him $20 for "union dues." Hill paid and never saw Peck again until today. Recognizing Peck, Hill called police. Chief Howard said records show Peck was identified as the man who allegedly committed as the man who allegedly committed a single crime in Long Beach six months ago.

Peck will be held here until Chief Howard learns in what other cities of California Peck may be wanted. Fingerprints taken today identified Peck as the man wanted in Long Beach.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7.—I think Hollywood's one great folly and the reason for the phenomenal success of the "Hardy Family" and "Jones Family" pictures is very obvious. They have portrayed average people faithfully, without distortion or exaggeration. Audiences are made up of people just like the Hardys and the Joneses, and those screen characters are convincing to them. They leave the theaters with the feeling that they have peeked through the blinds of their next door neighbor's house. I have contended for years that

HARWOOD GIVES DIRECTIONS
ON MAILING CARDS, PACKAGES

Annual instructions for wrapping and mailing Christmas packages and Christmas greeting cards were posted today by Postmaster Frank R. Harwood.

This year, as in the past, printed Christmas cards, bearing only the signature of the sender, may be mailed in unsenveloped envelopes at third class rates—one and a half cents for two ounces. This type of mail is not given directory service and is not forwarded and is not returned to the sender if undeliverable, Harwood said.

URGES PROMPT DELIVERY

The local post office recommends the mailing of Christmas greetings at the first class rate in order to secure prompt delivery. Matter of the first class is given directory service in case the addressee has moved, will be forwarded without extra postage anywhere in the United States and if postman is unable to deliver, will be returned to the sender provided a return address is placed on the envelope.

"The first class rate being two cents for local delivery and three cents for out of the city.

"Grovers will receive returns earlier than usual and pound for pound they will average fully 10 per cent higher than last season—a situation which I confidently believe would be impossible without strong cooperative control," he said.

McFadden announced he asked A. J. McFadden, Santa Ana, to serve another term as chairman of the California prorate commission. McFadden said McFadden wanted to resign but that he urged McFadden to serve another term.

CITRUS LEADER
TALKS ON PRICE

PAUL S. ARMSTRONG, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, yesterday told 400 delegates to the 71st convention of the California farmers and fruit growers' convention in Ventura that California fruit prices are low "because buying power is about 20 per cent below that of last year."

He said the California citrus industry moved 300,000 cars, the largest volume in its history. The crop marketed this season was 30 per cent in excess of the five year average.

SEES SMALLER CROP

The Growers' exchange program, he said, calls for volume regulation of shipments and elimination by the industry of surpluses. He added, however, that prospects for another record-breaking crop next year were somewhat reduced by frost, wind, and poor growing conditions.

In following up criticism of the prorate theory by Gov. Frank F. Merriam, Armstrong said the exchange "will do everything in its power to the end that the portion marketed in fresh fruit channels will return a fair price to the producer."

WALNUT LEADER SPEAKS

Merriman had said he was opposed to the prorate plan as a general rule but that "present conditions make it absolutely necessary in California."

Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the California Walnut Growers' association, said: "The current crop, though 25 per cent in excess of the average domestic consumption of the past three years, will be hardly sold without a carry-over or without a reduction in price."

P. E. BRIDGE AT STANTON O. K.

THE Pacific Electric Railway company does not consider that its piling trestle bridge at Stanton was responsible for flood damage in that area last March 2 and 3, and considers, furthermore, that since flood danger will be eliminated with construction of Prado dam, it would be a needless waste to replace the present bridge with a $60,000 steel bridge.

That attitude of the railway company was conveyed to the county supervisors late yesterday in a letter from its president, O. A. Smith. He pointed out that vagrant flood waters, having no connection with the P. E. bridge, covered large areas at Stanton last March, and the bridge could not be blamed for damage.

His letter to the board was in comment upon the board's recent resolution proposing replacement of the bridge by steel spans.

Special programs are planned for the Agricultural club leaders and for the Home Demonstration club leaders. A demonstration of recreational activities for 4-H clubs will be given in the evening by Miss Fleda Smith, assistant state leader of home demonstration.

Mrs. Marsile Is Bride of James Randal

Occurring Monday afternoon in All Saints' Episcopal church, Riverside, was the quietly impressive service uniting in marriage, two well-known Santa Anans, Mrs. Elizabeth Marsile, East Seventeenth street, and J. A. Randal, 2024 West Eighth street.

The Rev. Clark Smith, rector of All Saints, conducted the rites at a candle-lit altar where bride and bridegroom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook of this city. Mrs. Marsile was wearing a very lovely costume in teal blue with all dress accessories in navy except her modish hat, which was the same shade as her frock. With this costume she wore a long spray of gardenias.

Mrs. Cook also wore gardenias with her pretty frock of deep green, worn with black dress accessories. Following the wedding at 3 o'clock, the new Mr. and Mrs. Randal returned to this city accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Cook, and were complimented at a reception for intimate friends, at which Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marsile were hosts in the East Seventeenth street ranch home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dilly assisted in all plans for the pleasant affair at which only the closest friends were received. Flowers in delicate hues were combined with white tapers in decorative effect. In the dining room, a big wedding cake ornamented with doves, rested on a lace-spread table between crystal candelabra in which white candles flickered. White carnations and maidenhair fern added charm to the table.

This cake was cut by the new Mrs. Randal, to be served with coffee and ice cream after a course of chicken salad and hot rolls. Guests found places at small tables whose tapers rose from mounds of sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Marsile and their sons, Raymond Jr. and Robert Marsile, and Mr. and Mrs. Dilly served the dainties.

Others present to offer their good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Randal included with Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Daisy Turner and her mother, Mrs. Cully; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Madden, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hinckley of Dans Point, Miss Bertha Bell, Miss Emma Bell, Henry Bell, Mrs. Anna Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Powers.

Mr. Randal, active in Calumet auxiliary, U.S.W.V., is inspector with the County Agricultural department. His bride is identified with various organizations here, but is especially prominent in Native Daughters of the Golden West. For she is not only a native daughter of the state, but of Orange county, since she was born at Newhope. Mr. and Mrs. Randal are deferring plans for any honeymoon trip until later, and soon will be at home to their many friends at 2024 West Eighth street.

Literary Evening Adds Interest to Week's Friendly Affairs

Many Guests Received When DI Chapter Stages Tea

An unusually pleasant event of Sunday evening shared by friends from various Orange county points, as well as from Santa Ana, was a book review program at which Mrs. Clara Louise Forman, 2403 French street, presented Mrs. J. Tucker Murray of San Clemente.

Comparatively a newcomer to the county, Mrs. Tucker made a deep impression upon Mrs. Forman's guests both by her charm of personality and by her rare qualities as reviewer. Wearing a simple but effective costume of black velvet, she held the eyes of her hearers as firmly as she attracted their minds by her masterly work.

"All This and Heaven Too" by Rachel Field, and "Remembering" by Nathalie Edwick Colby were the books she chose for analysis. Her interest in the latter book was heightened by girlhood associations with the author in Stockbridge, Mass. She told intimate details of disillusionment and tragedy of her marriage to Bainbridge Colby, the man she loved.

Poet's Autobiography Offered in Review For Ebell Group

Parading across the pages of literature, such names as Vachel Lindsay, Eunice Tietjens, Carl Sandburg, Edna St. Vincent Millay, and others of this country's "Golden Age" of poetry came to life yesterday as Mrs. John Tessmann reviewed for Ebell's Modern Poetry section, that anthology of Harriet Monroe, "A Poet's Life."

The occasion was the section's December meeting in the Horace Scott home, 2208 North Ross street, where Mrs. Scott and Miss Ruth Rowland extended a gracious hospitality. Mrs. Louis Vorhis conducted the business meeting, during which she announced the present addresses of two members who are taking a year's leave of absence, Mrs. Lillian Pritchett, 1316 South Coast boulevard, Laguna Beach, and Mrs. Harwood Sharp, 502 South Ninth street, Norfolk, N.C.

Mrs. Robert Northcross, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Tessmann, who in analyzing the autobiography of the famous Chicagoan, selected those details dealing primarily with the American poets developed by her during her years of editing "Poetry," which she founded in 1912. An interesting final to the review was when Mrs. Scott played a phonograph record of Vachel Lindsay's sonorous chant of his poem, "The Congo."

The afternoon ended on a note of social charm when the hostesses, aided by Mrs. Scott's mother, Mrs. Mack Lane, served refreshments. Two guests remained for this pleasant interval also, Miss Deborah Elliott and Mrs. Neillie Smith, shared with section members including Mesdames Louis Vorhis, Robert Northcross, Terry E. Stephenson, John Tessmann, Edith Thatcher, J. M. Cloys, Aldie Worswick, Alice Hill Hatch, Edward M. Nealey, S. B. Marshall, Emmett Elliott, the Misses Luvicy Carter, Verna Wells, Beulah May Vanche Plumb and the hostesses, Miss Rowland and Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. Vorhis will be hostess at the meeting on January 3 in her home, 308 Orange avenue. Mrs. Paul Valey will review the July number of "Poetry," devoted to Federal Poetry projects.

The one-and-only Gregory Ratoff is again busy directing a picture. Today, on the set, I watched him pace back and forth, milling over a difficult love scene to be played by Loretta Young and Warner Baxter, who stood by, impatiently waiting for him to call them before the cameras. But Gregory paced for at least ten minutes. Then, suddenly, he stopped. "We'll shoot it now," he said. "I'm in the mood!"

of reality. Characterizations are so exaggerated that they are unreal; screen stenographers wear mink coats; sorrow is overplayed, and wisecrackers do nothing but spout clever lines from entrance to exit.

It seems to me that in a year when the most expensive colossals are doing box office nose-dives, Hollywood should stop and analyze the success of these pictures. And learn that realism means more than dramatic intensity.

ODD-FORMATION: Anna May Wong has "died" in twenty-six pictures in which she has played featured roles. The U. S. Navy reserves the right to censor pictures dealing with it for lack of general quality as well as for technical mistakes. Edward G. Robinson, Hollywood's perpetual gangster, is incurably gashy. Jack Trent, now bodyguard to Jane Withers, has held a similar job with Joan Crawford, Gwen Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Clara Bow, Elaine Barrie and Marlene Dietrich.

Binnie Barnes is a pipe addict. "Hamburger Sam," who sets up his stand on movie locations, tells me he has given credit to extras for years and never lost a dime by trusting them. Studies in consistency: "Ben Hur"—as a book, it ranks third in the list of all-time best sellers; as a picture, it ranks third in the amount of money earned. Ivan Lebedeff always carries a couple of spare monacles in his vest pocket.

One of the faces on the Alaskan totem pole in Hugh Herbert's front yard looks just like Hugh. John Boles wants to be a gentleman farmer when he retires from pictures. Frances Brokaw, the seven-year-old step-daughter of Henry Fonda, is so jealous of her baby half-sister that she calls herself Henry Fonda, Jr. Sidney Toler, the new Charlie Chan—gets a tidy income in royalties from one-act high school plays he has authored.

Doug Corrigan is girl shy—so excessively girl-shy that the mischievous cuties of RKO are having a Roman holiday at his expense. The best gag to date was authorized by Joyce Compton, the romantic interest in his picture, "The Flying Irishman." The other day she and Doug were playing a scene in the cockpit of a plane. Suddenly, something went amiss with the studio's electric system and every light blinked out, leaving the stage in inky darkness. "Stop it!" shrieked Miss Compton. "STOP IT, DOUGLAS—after all" And when the lights came on, poor Doug's face was a rich tomato-red.

I've often noted Claudette Colbert's amazing ability to remember names—and today I saw evidence of that ability's practical value. At my table in the studio cafe was one of our lesser critics who, a dozen times in the past year has assured me that he doesn't like Claudette, either as a personality or an actress. While we were downing our coffee, she stopped for a moment to say hello and greeted him by name, reminding him that they had met at a studio party last year. Gratified vanity was written all over his face. "A remarkable girl," he had said.

by KATHRYN CULVER

Linda Bailey's father has been considered Centerville's wealthiest citizen, but when he dies, she learns that he has left her practically nothing. To hide this from the townfolk, she sets out for Hollywood, over the protests of Fred Lancaster, who expected to marry her. En route she meets Martin Carstairs, movie star. In Los Angeles she takes an apartment with Mae Baxter, another screen aspirant. She begins to fall in love with Martin, but a studio representative tells her Martin is secretly married to Judith Grange, actress, but becomes infatuated with newcomers, promising them screen tests. Linda breaks with Martin. She and Mae get jobs in a five-and-ten store, romantically hoping a movie scout will see them. Fred wires he is coming to Los Angeles and she and Mae put on a high-hat act to make him think Linda is a success. Helen Debler wires she is coming to meet Fred. Linda takes Fred to visit a studio. He bores her. Suddenly he sees Martin Carstairs and demands an introduction.

CHAPTER XXIII
MARTIN had evidently just come off a set. He stopped suddenly as he saw Linda and a grimace of pain crossed his face. Then he turned as though to avoid her.

"Why don't you call to him?" Fred was excitedly pulling Linda toward the star.

"You wrote me about meeting him when you got here. And working on the same lot with him, you must know him."

Linda's entire plan hung in the balance for one crucial instant.

She didn't dare refuse Fred's request to be introduced to Martin.

She felt he would surely suspect the hoax if she refused.

Yet, how would Martin act if she spoke to him?

She was surprised to hear her voice calling: "Mart! Wait a minute! Mart!"

Martin stopped, turned to face them, grave and unsmiling. He said, "Good afternoon, Miss Bailey," in a pleasant though not too cordial voice.

Linda came up to him a little ahead of Fred, her eyes holding an expression of agonized appeal which he could not fail to observe and interpret correctly.

"I have a visitor from back home . . . out here to congratulate me on my success in the movies," she said breathlessly. "He . . . wanted to see the studio where I work . . . and to see some of the stars . . ."

MARTIN was staring at Linda. She knew he understood her position, that he sensed the appeal in her voice.

Fred was by her side now, gawky and self-conscious. "Gosh, I'm proud to make your acquaintance, Mr. Carstairs."

"This is Fred Lancaster," Linda said hastily. "He's just in town for today and I'm trying to show him the sights."

Martin relieved the tensity of the moment by smiling suddenly. He offered his hand to Fred and said:

"I'm very happy to meet one of Linda's friends." He paused, then went on gravely: "You must be very proud of her. Back in Centerville, isn't it?"

"Yes. That's right. Centerville. We are proud of her, Mr. Carstairs." Fred paused and gulped. "Could I . . . would you give me your autograph, sir?"

"Of course," Martin took Fred's book and scribbled something in it. Handing it back he studied the young man intently, then turned to Linda and said:

Hold Rites For C. F. Furstenau

ORANGE, Dec. 7.—A community chest for the city of Orange looms as a possibility today. S. B. Edwards, Dr. Paul Rumph and M. M. Fishback are members of a committee from the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce appointed to investigate the idea and to meet with organizations affected by the proposed change.

Plans for organization of a community chest were discussed at a meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday, with Roy Edwards presiding and appointing the committee of which Edwards is to act as chairman.

Organizations affected by the proposed switch are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Salvation Army, Red Cross, Orange Community Welfare board and to some extent, the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross conduct fall campaigns, the Salvation Army an early spring campaign, the Welfare board and Y. W. C. A. campaigns later in the spring. Ample time to decide the question will be afforded the committee and the organizations owing to the fact that fall campaigns have just closed.

WATSON TO SPEAK

ORANGE, Dec. 7.—K. E. Watson, Orange banker, will be the speaker at the meeting of the 20-30 club at the Sunshine Bistro tonight. Watson recently returned from an interesting trip around the world.

Virginia Claypool, soprano, "Soli- ders of Fortune" from the opera Girl of the Golden West by Romberg, was sung by John La Mont, the piano solo, "Anitra's Dance" from Grieg's Peer Gynt Suite, was then played by Ruth Snider.

"Habanera" from the opera Carmen, by Bizet, was offered by Sofley.

Mission Worker Leaves For China

ORANGE, Dec. 7.—Lutheran pastors and their wives gathered at Immanuel Lutheran hall Monday night for a farewell party for the Rev. Erhard Riedel, who will sail from Seattle this week for Waisan, China.

The Rev. Mr. Riedel, who has been engaged in mission work in China for the past 10 years and has been home on furlough, will again teach in the seminary and also minister to the congregations at Waisan. His wife and children will continue to make their home in Orange.

"That would be wonderful, Mr. Carstairs. I guess we can't turn down an invitation like that, can we, Linda?"

Linda said, "No—I guess not." She thought she detected a flicker of amusement in Martin's eyes. He was deliberately doing this to make her uncomfortable, she told herself, but she was caught fast in the web of her own deceit and there was no escape.

"SUPPOSE I change and get this make-up off and meet you at six," Martin suggested suavely, mentioning one of the better known dinner and dance places as a rendezvous. "It will be informal," he added pleasantly to Fred, whose glance had strayed down over the business suit he wore. "I know how it is when one is on a trip."

"He's certainly a swell fellow," Fred said feelingly as he watched Martin drive away. "Not a bit stuck up or snooty."

"Oh, Mart's all right," Linda said faintly.

She was trembling in the reaction from the meeting with Martin. Although she loathed herself for it, all her old feeling for Martin had come surging back over her at sight of him. In love with a married man! It was a terrifying thought. She wouldn't be that sort of a girl, she told herself fiercely. She wouldn't!

She turned and led Fred back to the limousine.

"I don't feel very well," she explained to Fred. "I hope you won't mind if we don't tour the studio. A drive out into the country with just you and me will be lots nicer."

Fred agreed. He was in a dazed state of exaltation which deprived him of all conscious thought except remembrance of the fact that he was to be Martin Carstairs' guest for dinner.

Linda gave directions for a long drive, that should bring them back to the city with no time to spare to go to her apartment before they met Martin for dinner. She felt no remorse at the thought of Helen waiting for them at the apartment. These few hours with Fred were hers.

More than ever, now she knew Fred would propose to her, insist that she come back to Centerville. Seeing Martin again had solidified her resolve to accept Fred if he proposed. It would be much safer to be married to Fred and away from Los Angeles, where there would be no danger of meeting Martin again.

FRED was the perfect sightseer. He wanted to know what everything was, and Linda invented answers when she didn't know. But Linda felt utterly defeated as they came back into the city in the cover of early darkness. Fred had not once put his arm about her, had not directed a single personal remark to her.

Linda sat erect. She had been a fool to hope for anything else, she told herself bitterly. They had just time to keep their engagement with Martin, and she told the driver to take them straight there, paying no attention to Fred's protest that he should go to the apartment to "clean up."

The head waiter bowed from the waist when Linda told him they were expected to join Mr. Carstairs. As they started to follow him through the dinner crowd Linda felt a tap on her shoulder and turned to look into the face of Judith Grange.

"Yes. That's right. Centerville. We are proud of her, Mr. Carstairs." Fred paused and gulped. "Could I . . . would you give me your autograph, sir?"

"Of course," Martin took Fred's book and scribbled something in it. Handing it back he studied the young man intently, then turned to Linda and said:

FACTORY JOBS SHOW INCREASE

With the start of 1938 production employment in the motor industry has picked up rapidly. The rate of production at the factories indicates that 350,000 men will be at work in automobile assembly, body and parts plants during the month of November.

This is in sharp contrast with the level of 193,000 which prevailed during the month of August. The rise began with September when the first 1938 models began to come off assembly lines. Employment that month attained a level of 228,000. October average wages were estimated at $33,000 men.

This direct employment is accompanied by further payroll gains in the numerous industries supplying motor vehicles in which production has been increasing.

CARTER SCHOOL
TRAINING TOLD

Recently returned from a month's training at Carter Carburetor Corporation school at St. Louis, Leonard L. Weisz, service manager for United Automotive Service of Santa Ana, Main and First streets, today reported on the activity and work accomplished by the school.

"Since approximately 80 per cent of the passenger cars manufactured today carry Carter carburetors as original equipment, it is vital to the company that automotive mechanics are able to repair and adjust them correctly," Weisz said.

Practical School

"To accomplish this the corporation has set up a school for mechanics. The service school at St. Louis is unusual in two ways. First, those who are selected to attend are paid during the training course. Second, the course is entirely devoted to carburetor repairs, adjustments and motor tune-ups.

"The first week I was there we devoted all work of a practical nature. At this time the students are given a thorough knowledge of the carburetor and its functions. The instructor lectures and uses diagrams and each student is given a carburetor as a model during the lectures.

"During the second week of training the group is turned over to another instructor, a former assistant superintendent in the factory. Under his supervision the class is taken into the plant proper and are put to work putting into practice what they have learned during the first week. The finished repair jobs done by the class are then subjected to a rigid test before they are allowed to be placed on the market.

Devoted to motor tune-up practice devoted to motor tune-up practice and the students are given a course in meeting the complaints of the motoring public," Weisz declared. "We are happy to have been able to give Weisz the opportunity to attend the school," Leonard N. Forcey, owner of United Automotive Service said today. "We feel sure that we will be better equipped to render service to the motoring public because of his training at the Carter school."

Rainy Season
Brings Skidding

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 7.—One day out of every three will be rainy this winter, weather bureau statistics show, and more than seven per cent of all automobile accidents will be caused by skidding, according to accident records.

"This combination should center the attention of all motorists upon their tires this winter," Colonel Charles E. Speaks, president of the Fisk Tire company, declared today.

It only takes one smooth tire out of four to throw a car into a dangerous skid when brakes are applied suddenly, he pointed out. And the difference of a quarter of an inch in tread depth may be the difference between safety and death.

Colonel Speaks urged all motorists to check their brakes and particularly their tires with ice and snow presenting driving hazards in addition to those of rainy weather.

MODERN CARS
CREATE INCOME

DETROIT—(Special) Exceptional public interest this year in all the local auto shows reveals a growing appreciation of the auto industry's importance in the nation's economic life, according to D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth Motor Corp.

"More and more," Eddins said, "people realize that prospects of better business for the auto industry are a sure sign of better conditions generally throughout the country, because of the bigger streams of wages released from coast to coast.

"That this is true becomes more apparent with every passing year, while the automotive industry outstrips all others in annual value of its products, in wages generated for its 6,000,000 direct or indirect employees, and in its purchasing power for the products of the 48 states.

"As a producer of national wealth, expert estimates attribute 14 1/2% of the nation's present income to automobiles. Even the richest gold field in the world never produced in its lifetime anywhere near the equivalent of the billions in wages created by the auto industry since 1900.

"The richest gold field—that of South Africa—so far has produced a total value in gold of approximately 7 billions of dollars. Compare this with the 17 billions paid out in wages alone since 1900, to the men who built the automobiles and made the glass, steel and rubber that went into them.

"The effects of this on the public's purchasing power are self-evident. In 1900, only one non-farm family in ten owned a horse and buggy. The other nine couldn't afford to—nor did they have enough surplus buying power to afford even the lowest price car of today, even if it had existed. Today, it is estimated that 1 out of every 1.2 non-farm families owns an automobile. "That added wealth did not come from the natural products consumed in building the motor car. Statisticians figure that those materials, in their rawest stage like iron ore, coal and cotton, are worth somewhere about $35. All the rest is man-made value."

SERIAL STORY

LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1938, N.E.A. SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY ALCOTT—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.

DWIGHT CAMPBELL—ambitious Lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.

JACK HANLEY—flying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love.

MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday: Dwight asks Judy to forgive him, to pick up the broken pieces. But she tells him she is engaged to marry Jack!

CHAPTER XXVI

THE moment the words left her lips, Judy Alcott lost the triumph that had inspired them. She felt cold, and Dwight's stunned face was not the victory she had thought it would be. It was like a flame that had dwindled quickly to ashes.

He said, "I'm sorry, Judy. Sorry I said those things. Of course I couldn't expect a girl like you to sit around and wait while I—while I came to my senses." His mouth twisted. "We all find out there is no Santa Claus. We all discover we can't undo the mistakes we made. But I wish—God, how I wish—I had seen things clearly. I wish I had married you!" The violence of his words shook him. And then he was reaching for her, pulling her into his arms. "I love you," he said over and over. "Now that I can't have you, it's too cruel to bear. I want you. I need you."

She should have pushed him away. But she had hungered for his arms so long. To be close against his heart, to feel the rise and fall of his breathing, to have his pleading in her ears like this, was so sharply sweet, that for a moment she remained quiescent, still. But then she put her hands against his chest and stirred. "Don't, Dwight. It's no use."

THAT hurt. He cried, "Oh, Hanley told you, did he! Just because he's a hardworking fool who's crazy about some dimwit idea that won't ever amount to a hill of beans. Six and a half million dollars for a dirigible that goes down in any little blow."

"Battleships cost sixty millions," she said. "And dirigibles don't go down in—"

"What do you know about it?" he cried, stung. "Only what he's told you."

She said despairingly, "We've come a long way from what we started with. I didn't mean to say what I did. Whether it's true or not, whether you realize it or not, doesn't matter. I'm engaged to Jack Hanley, and—"

"You're too proud to take me because I married her first," he said slowly. "That's all it is. You know so little of life, Judy! People all make mistakes. That's how

TEASING CHILDREN

Children tease each other and then start quarreling. That is bad enough. Teasing is a form of bullying and does the bully as much harm as it does the bullied. Character is not improved by bullying, either one side or the other. Usually the child who teases his brother or sister picks on the weaker ones. It is an indication usually that this child is not shining as brightly as he would like in school, or playground or, perhaps, home. He thinks that by showing power enough to make another child cry, or quarrel, he will win applause for his prowess. He won't, but he is too dull to see that. So much for him.

The worst form of teasing, because it creates fear and the feeling of insecurity in the child, is that of the grown-up teasing of children. It seems incredible that a grown person can get any feeling of satisfaction, or power, in tormenting a child; yet some apparently thrive on it.

A father, big, husky, and what he likes to call red-blooded, has a son who cries easily. Scold this lad, threaten him, refuse to give him something he wants, and he cries. That is aggravating any time to anybody but it is especially aggravating to this kind of father. He roars at the weeping child and he weeps the more. The scene usually ends with the boy in tears, in his own room, and father roaring and threatening him with a beating if he doesn't appear wheated in smiles inside two minutes.

One would think that with a series of such experiences extending over a period of years, that the thing to do would be to avoid bringing on the tears. Father does not think so. He thinks the thing to do is to harden the boy so he can "take it." That would be most desirable, but teasing the boy until he takes refuge in tears will not harden him. It is more likely to drive him into such a state of nervous tension that he will need a season in the hospital to set him right again. Teasing does no good at any time, anywhere. It invariably does harm.

If you have a child who cries at the crook of a finger—and there are few more trying habits than this one—keep you patience and your temper, for you will need them. Have the child tested by a reputable nerve specialist and children's practitioner. Find what, if anything, is wrong with this nervous system that responds before it is actually called upon and so wastes precious energy that ought to go into his growth. That the child for his trouble and don't try to punish him into health.

Avoid the occasion for tears. Every time he cries motion him to the privacy of the bathroom where he can wash off all signs of tears with cold water. He should not be ordered to "Stop crying," but trained to do his cry.

wanted to marry a rich girl, you find out, in the end, what we really want. If you loved Hanley, you'd have married him long before I knew you. He's been hanging around you ever since he got out of the Academy."

"Let's not talk about it any more." She thought that Dwight had none of the sensibility that Jack had. Jack was always so careful in what he said, so considerate of her feelings. But Dwight barged blindly on, saying the things he wanted to say, not caring how they hurt.

SHE turned the key in the ignition. "Shall I drop you anywhere?" she asked.

"I wasn't going any place. I suppose I'll go back to the ship." She couldn't resist asking, "Where is Marvel?"

"On Tenant's yacht, I guess. I don't care."

"But that wasn't true. He did care. She said gently, "You turned to me because it was a salve for your pride, Dwight. I think you're still crazy about her."

"A moment ago you accused me of marrying her for her money."

But she knew that though this was true, it did not prevent him from really loving Marvel; from being affected by her beauty and her lure.

"I guess I'll get out here," he said, reaching for the door handle.

"Don't. I'll drive you to the pier."

She should have realized that it was better to let him go here. But she had never been one to foresee the sharp eyes, the delighted gasps, of other people. Gossip always caught her unaware.

So when they stopped at the pier, and Dwight got out, she did not notice anyone she knew. Yet the moment she reached home, her mother said to her, "Judy, I've just had a phone call from Mrs. Lane. She says someone on the station saw Dwight getting out of your car a few minutes ago. She says—"

"I suppose people are talking already!" Judy snapped. "Can't I even drop him off at the pier without people leaping to the conclusion that he was making love to me?"

"Was he making love to you?" her mother asked, in a quiet voice.

Nab Suspect In Murder Case

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 7.-(UP)

Det. Sgt. Edward Dieckman said he would seek a complaint from the district attorney's office today charging Paul Edward Jackson, 36, Glendale plumber, with the murder of Charles Edwin Sabol, 28-year-old sailor who was found shot on a downtown street early Sunday morning.

Although Jackson contended he was too "dazed" to recall the events of the night, Dieckman said he believed the web of circumstantial evidence was strong enough to support a murder complaint.

THE MIDDLE OF THE ROAD

An editorial in the New York Times, one of America's foremost Democratic dailies says: "A great number of Americans have been encouraged to believe that it is possible to grow richer by working less and by producing less; that it is the proper business of a government to subsidize large numbers of its people; that there is an inexhaustible supply of money which can be used endlessly for this purpose; that those who advise greater caution in the expenditure of public funds, or who urge a relaxation of restraints which needlessly handicap private enterprise, are merely 'ducal overlords' who stand in the way of all progress. The dangers involved in such a course as this are eventual bankruptcy of the National Government and encouragement of 'class' prejudice which ought to have no place in the United States."

It then points out that the last election indicates "the American people are moving toward the middle of the road."

The people want social reform, where it is necessary. They want adequate provision made for the needy and elderly. But at the same time they want to keep our institutions, and our democratic heritage, inviolate. Disregarding all "political partisanship, that's the best news in a long while."

QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

Rumors and reports of vast expenditures to be made by private utility industry for expansion and improvement are highly encouraging, especially so in view of the fact that the federal government seems to have loaned its blessing to the program. However, several vital questions still remain to be answered before the American investor can be expected to come forth with the millions in cold cash that will be needed to support any large scale utility development.

What of the government's own electric program? What of TVA and all the other publicly subsidized socialist experiments in electric power that dot the landscape from coast to coast and which have impaired the invested value of millions of dollars of private savings? Will more "rubber yardsticks" be created to drive more "shot-guns" bargains for the sale of private utility properties to public agencies? Will the federal government continue to make loans and grants to induce municipalities to enter the fold of socialism? Or will government promotion of experiments in this direction be called off? Of equal importance, will existing government ownership undertakings such as TVA, be put on an operating basis that will protect private enterprise? Will fair bookkeeping methods, tax equalization and proper allotments of costs be adopted?

These are a few of the uncertainties that must be removed before the private utility industry can be expected to expand and progress on normal, sound foundations, with the full confidence and backing of the savings of the American investor.

LABOR WARNED IN OREGON

The Committee for Industrial Organization (C.I.O.) at its recent convention in Pittsburgh, adopted a resolution threatening the Ford Motor Company with a boycott of its cars if it continues to refuse to bargain with the union. Under the Wagner Act, coercion and intimidation are forbidden only to the employer, who may not even express an opinion to his employees derogatory of a union or unions, while labor may invite the public to ruin him.

It is such perverted law in our country, that seems to follow pretty closely the pattern of one-sided justice meted out today in some foreign nations, that brought a revolution of public sentiment in Oregon which has surprised the nation. Oregon voters said labor dictatorship must go, labor unionism may stay. By a heavy majority vote, even in labor centers, an initiative measure was passed which prohibits strikes and picketing except when a majority of a company's employees are in direct dispute over wages, hours and working conditions; limits the collection of money to the actual needs of the union and requires a strict accounting of union funds; forbids union intimidation or coercion of non-union workers and prevents union interference with any lawful community, manufacturing or farming operation.

It is just such resolutions as the one passed in Pittsburgh, that turn people against labor radicalism, not against honest unionism. Individual rights and liberties are destroyed by one-sided laws and dictatorship comes into power, Oregon citizens suffered under such a system and threw it out.

The Nation's Press

IF NO ONE SAID IT
(Daily Oklahoman)

Possibly Harry Hopkins never said, "We shall spend and spend and tax and tax and elect and elect." Perhaps no other new deal said it. But is not that exactly what the new deal has been doing for nearly six years?

It has been spending and taxing and electing, no matter what has been said or left unsaid. If the new deal has not been doing all of that, just what has it been doing?

It is passing strange that new dealers should be made so angry by the expression in a formula of what has been the new deal's major policy ever since the party came into being.

SHOULD NOT FORGET RUSSIAN TERRORISM
(San Bernardino Sun)

There is some danger in these days of terrorism by fascism that the democracies may forget the parallel terrorism by communism.

The Sacramento Bee relates recent events in Russia:

For several months the Stalin regime in Moscow has kept the Russian Army in an uproar with its blood purges and demotions.

Simultaneously, a cleaning has gone on among the ranks of the Communists themselves and many who occupied stellar positions in the revolution of 1917 have been summarily ousted from the party. Not a few have fared far worse by being compelled to face a firing squad.

More recently the purging movement has turned the tables on the Communists.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life / By R. C. Hoiles

WE STAND CORRECTED

I am under obligation to a friendly critic who pointed out an error in one of our recent articles quoting a statement made by Prof. Walter E. Spahr, of New York University, which said, "as production increases, prices tend to rise." In our comment on this subject, we said, "This is because producers in general advance payments to their employees and to those from whom they purchase raw materials before they can sell or deliver their own products."

Then we followed this statement by saying, "Thus purchasing power is created in advance of the delivery of goods which gave rise to this purchasing power."

This does not create purchasing power. It only transfers purchasing power from one group to another. It changes the nature of purchasing power because it increases the purchasing power of consumer goods for the moment at the expense of purchasing power later, as a result of retarding the accumulation of capital thus enabling more wealth to be created in the future. This is the only true way of creating additional purchasing power.

We are sorry to have made this confusing, thoughtless statement, as purchasing power is never created by credit, by pensions, or any other artificial way, but only by producing, which includes exchanging for what someone else produces.

DANGEROUS PRESENT ILLUSIONS

Our politicians, our educators, our business men fawning to retail trade, our "parlor pinks," who inherit wealth they never earned, have been spreading pleasant illusions that are very dangerous and have brought about the condition we are in. A few of these pleasant illustrations are:

1. Purchasing power can be increased by pensions.
2. Purchasing power can be increased by collective bargaining.
3. Purchasing power can be increased by tariffs and quotas.
4. Purchasing power can be increased by arbitrary wages by law.

5. Purchasing power can be increased by limiting the hours that a man dare add to the wealth of the world.

These are some of the pleasant illusions that the Pharisees and Scribes and hypocrites have been selling to the gullible public. And when these men are asked to explain how these things will work, they usually resort to calling names, such as "economic royalists," "reactionaries," "Tories." These are the men who pray in public, who do things "for to be seen by men." Beware of the advocates of pleasant illusions who occupy a Sunday school class, a pulpit, a column in a newspaper or a position in public or private educational institutions or a political office who will not answer questions as to how his plan will work.

DISTINGUISHED SCHOLARS AND TEACHERS NOT IN EDUCATIONAL WORK

A biennial report of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, which is chiefly devoted to the improvement of education, says "with a few exceptions, the distinguished scholars and teachers of America are found elsewhere but in the departments of education. Yet in such a democracy as America, teaching is the most important of all professions."

Would that the great mass of parents realized the truth of this statement!

The political educators have told the parents so often that they should turn the education of their youths over to them and give them more money that the public has come to believe the distinguished scholars and teachers of America are found in the department of education. The result is, parents seldom check up on the insidious propaganda that the child is obliged to study, nor do they realize the great waste of energy and time in the formative period of life to which the children are subjected. They have got the people believing that education can be a mechanized quantity on productive basis, just as you can produce machines off a factory belt.

Would that practical people would give more time and energy to how their children are being educated. As the writer of this report says, "teaching is the most important of all professions." And we should not permit the lazy, inefficient politicians at the head of the schools to turn this sacred trust into a mere political, lucrative job.

toward the youth element. Chief executives of the Young Communists League, a sort of proving ground for the adult members of the Communist Party, have been removed from office on the ground that disloyalty and counter revolutionary sentiment prevails in the league.

The people of Russia are as anxious as those of Germany and Italy. There is intrigue and hatred, distrust and suspicion.

Yet there continues in the United States a very considerable number of individuals who turn their eyes to Russia as the model for the government they would prefer for this country. An alarming number of individuals in public office welcome the support of communistic influences. There was a time in this country, when if a man in public office accepted communistic support, he did it with the utmost secrecy. There are those among the new liberals, however, who believe it to be perfectly proper to sit on the same platforms with known communists. They claim it to be freedom of assembly or some such sacred right.

The real American, the real believer in democracy has a right to demand that those who condemn fascism also condemn communism and those who condemn communism also condemn fascism. One is as bad as the other. There is no hope for the brotherhood of man in either.

STOP WAR BY EXAMPLE
(Beake Carter in L. A. Examiner)

As a rule this writer has never been enthusiastic about the pronouncements of the professional peace organizations. Too many peace organizations are phonies out to cover up Communistic activities. Furthermore, too many professional peace outfits are utterly impractical in their fanatical idealism.

But the statement made by the seven peace groups which jumped on Mr. Roosevelt's rearmament program is, for once, based on some sound logic and common sense:

"History has proved," says the statement, "that battleships and bombing planes cannot stop economic or cultural penetration of nations. Such penetration from abroad can be met only by improving the ties between the nations of the Western Hemisphere. The job of the United States is to show the American countries a working democracy here and lend a hand to help them raise their living standards so that Fascism will have no appeal."

A Juggie of Names

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

The masses are much influenced by names. Radicals understand this, and capitalize it for all it is worth. They abandon the names that really indicate what they are, appropriate to themselves the respectable names of conservatism. In this way they may lead many of the uninformed into the radical camps.

The Tories were those who stood with the executive in his attempt to repudiate constitutional principles. A conservative is neither a reactionary nor a radical. He is a sane, careful, conservative builder, and the exponent of true progress.

"Liberal," as applied to politics, comes to us from England. There is no fundamental antagonism between the conservatives and liberals. The difference between them is largely a difference of emphasis. They agree on the vital necessity of protecting, preserving and defending the Constitution. They are in full accord on the point that governmental activities should be kept in the bounds definitely fixed by the Constitution. A liberal is inclined to extend governmental activities as far as the Constitution will permit. A conservative is inclined to soft-pedal the extension of governmental activities because he believes that more harm than good may come from such extension.

A "hundred percent New Dealer" is in no proper sense a liberal. In attempting to destroy Constitutional principles by methods antagonistic to the Constitution, he forfeited all rights to be called a liberal, and qualified himself as an extreme radical. A "hundred percent New Dealer" is a political hybrid—half reactionary and half radical. Like another notable hybrid, he is, in principle, without pride of ancestry or reasonable hope of posterity.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Heavy

quiet

(and at Chapel

Hill) lately concerning religious persecutions in Germany may be deceptive. Returned ambassador from Berlin, Hugh Wilson, is accredited inside with having talked the President out of following up his strong first words. Not because of any fear of results, but because of expectations that Hitler, if not roughed too much, might work out something sane. At least, authorities here would like to give him a chance.

Confidentially they consider the existing international situation highly dangerous, more dangerous perhaps than before the Munich peace, although it lacks the drama of that crisis.

Chamberlain is clearly losing his campaign of reason with the dictators. Rumors that he is discouraged are accredited here, because his discouragement is shared.

It is evident to our diplomatic officials at long last that Germany, Italy and Japan have a secret working agreement going far beyond their known pact against communism.

Apparently it is a mutual aggression understanding. Obviously it is a conspiracy of the down-trodden nations to use power politics systematically in co-operation to attain their personal objectives. From another standpoint than their own ambitions, it is an unscrupulous alliance. At least it is so regarded around here among those who make our foreign policy.

The meetings therefore can be held far more conveniently here, and will be.

Collectania—within 10 weeks every British inhabitant will be able to get a gas mask from his government. (Supplies ministry announcement) . . . Germany has built 700 anti-aircraft guns in the last four years. (Winston Churchill says he knows it) . . . Don't wait for those promised Senator

Harrison speeches. He came down with influenza, had to postpone his lecture tour . . . You can still buy the Brooklyn bridge but you can't take a picture of it. Army and navy are preparing new regulations restricting photographs of structures near their stations, in accordance with the national defense act . . . White House is trying to get Senator Wagner to take charge of amending his own national labor relations act, but he is not enthusiastic . . . Several employees of NLRB apparently think they see large handwriting on the wall. They have been around to other government bureaus trying to get jobs . . .

This does not include the vast numbers who are on the borderline and who may show only occasional temporary aberrations.

The fact that more and more people are living in the cities with less opportunity to take care of the sick at home, means that more and more people will be sent to hospitals. Therefore, the number of people admitted to mental hospitals is not necessarily an accurate measure of the number of cases.

Notwithstanding these deductions, serious matter in the United States, however, mental aberration is still a . . . It is believed that out of the 2,144,800 children born in 1936 mental disease is between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

The number of people in hospitals for mental disease increased more than 40 per cent from 1928 to 1936. All sorts of explanations are offered to account for this increase. According to Harold F. Dorn of the United States Public Health Service, the apparent increase in mental disease, the annual cost for their care is between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

We all know what happened about six years ago. The interest load had become so great and had reduced purchasing power to such an extent that people were unable to pay any longer. The government then took over the interest and debt problems and since that time we have been trying to persuade ourselves that everything soon will be all right.

Interest bearing debt never can be cleared up as interest is the sole creator of the debt. You never heard of a dollar hatching out nickels and dimes to pay interest on itself. The money has to come from some other source which creates more debt and less purchasing power. This is what happened six years ago. Interest had created such a vast amount of debt that purchasing power was destroyed.

Some of our smartest men say the only way out of our present condition is through high production. We should know that this isn't so as we have so much of everything we need now the government is paying people not to produce. This is like saying

The only way we have of determining the extent of mental disease is by the number of people assigned to hospitals for the care of the mentally defective and the insane.

The heat treatment, malarial treatment, and other methods used in general paresis, and the insulin
